THIRTY-NINTH PACIFIC ISLANDS FORUM

Alofi, Niue
19 - 20 August 2008

FORUM COMMUNIQUÉ

The Thirty-Ninth Pacific Islands Forum was held in Niue from 19-20 August 2008 and was attended by Heads of State and Government of Australia, the Cook Islands, Kiribati, Nauru, New Zealand, Niue, Papua New Guinea, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, Samoa, Solomon Islands, Tonga, Tuvalu and Vanuatu and representatives of Federated States of Micronesia and Palau. New Caledonia and French Polynesia attended the formal session as associate members and Timor-Leste, Tokelau, Wallis & Futuna, the Commonwealth Secretariat and the United Nations as observers. The Forum Retreat was held at the Matavai Resort, Niue.

2. Leaders expressed their deep appreciation to the Government and people of Niue for hosting the 2008 meeting, for the warm and generous manner in which they had been welcomed and for the arrangements made for the meetings.

PACIFIC PLAN

3. Leaders noted that the Pacific Plan was coming to the end of its third year and that considerable progress had been made in implementing initiatives across all four of its pillars, and in particular, in response to the 2007 Vava'u Decisions. Challenges, however, remained. These included continuing human and financial capacity constraints in the implementation of some initiatives and the submission of timely reporting to support ongoing assessment of the Pacific Plan's progress.

4. Leaders noted that the momentum provided through the 2007 prioritisation process had helped focus the implementation of Pacific Plan initiatives, and agreed on the continuing need to set clear direction and targets for members, regional agencies and development partners. This would ensure that the Pacific Plan continued to be a 'living' document and the entry point for discussions on greater regional cooperation and integration through a range of processes at both the regional and international levels.

5. In following this precedent, Leaders agreed on a number of key commitments in order to move the Pacific Plan forward in the next twelve months. In summary, Leaders continued to accord priority to fisheries, energy, trade and economic integration, climate change and transport, in addition to information and communications technology, health, education, and good governance. Priority areas for attention under the Pacific Plan are listed in further detail at Annex A.

Food and Energy Security

6. Noting their concerns at rapid recent increases in food and fuel prices, Leaders emphasised the need, at the national level, to assess the implications and to respond appropriately (drawing on technical advice from the international financial institutions). Leaders also highlighted the critical importance of efforts to reduce dependence on oil through measures to improve energy efficiency and move towards greater use of renewable energy. Leaders requested that members share national experiences at the Forum Economic Ministers' Meeting at the end of October, and consider what regional cooperative efforts might help mitigate some of the worst effects of shifts in global prices.

Bulk Petroleum Procurement

7. Leaders underlined the need for urgent action to bring the bulk petroleum procurement initiative to fruition. In this context, they welcomed New Zealand's offer to fund a meeting of national experts in order to provide relevant advice for the October 2008 Forum Economic Ministers' Meeting, aimed at expediting implementation of the bulk petroleum procurement initiative. Leaders requested that Pacific Energy Ministers take further stock of the progress made at their meeting in April 2009, with a view to a finalised package of measures being adopted at the 2009 Leaders' meeting. Leaders called on the World Bank and other organisations to provide the assistance and support necessary at the regional and national levels.

Millennium Development Goals

8. Leaders noted that the international community was approaching the mid point in its commitment to achieve the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) by 2015. Leaders noted that the Pacific region had to date shown mixed results against the MDGs and committed themselves to redouble their efforts to make faster progress towards their achievement. Leaders noted that Australia had redefined its commitment to the MDGs through the March 2008 Port Moresby Declaration, and was giving effect to this through a major new programme of Pacific Partnerships for Development with Pacific Island Countries.

Labour Mobility

9. Leaders welcomed New Zealand's provision of seasonal work opportunities for Pacific island countries and welcomed Australia's announcement of a pilot scheme as a means to greater economic integration and development. Recognising the crucial significance of remittances to many Pacific island economies, Leaders welcomed the work currently underway, and encouraged further work, aimed at reducing the costs to individuals of sending money home to Pacific island countries.

CLIMATE CHANGE

10. In line with the designation of climate change as the theme of the 2008 Forum, Leaders emphasised the great seriousness with which they regard the growing threat posed by climate change to the economic, social, cultural and environmental well-being and security of Forum members, particularly the Forum Island Countries. Leaders affirmed their commitment to the ongoing development and implementation of Pacific-tailored approaches to combating climate change.

11. Leaders stressed the importance of cooperating towards the establishment of an effective post-2012 framework in which all major economies would participate in a responsible manner, underlining the need to achieve both emissions reductions and economic growth in working toward climate stability.

12. Leaders expressed appreciation for Australia's commitment to the Kyoto Protocol and welcomed Australia's announcement of an A$150 million climate adaptation programme with a focus on the Pacific. Leaders also welcomed New Zealand's announcement that it would step up financial support for climate change adaptation. Leaders further welcomed the resources and technical assistance from Post-Forum Dialogue Partners including new initiatives such as the Japanese Cool Earth Promotion Programme and the European Union's Global Climate Change Alliance (GCCA), that support practical measures to address the impacts of climate change in Pacific Island Countries, while noting that the priority of Pacific Small Island Developing States (SIDS) is securing sustainable financing for immediate and effective implementation of concrete adaptation programmes on the ground.

13. Leaders recalled the Mauritius Strategy for the Further Implementation of the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States, which calls for SIDS, with the necessary support of the international community, to establish or strengthen and facilitate regional climate change coordination mechanisms, and calls on the international community to facilitate and promote the development, transfer and dissemination to SIDS of appropriate technologies and practices to address climate change.

14. In this context, Leaders adopted the Niue Declaration on Climate Change, attached at Annex B.

FIJI

15. Leaders:

- (a) expressed serious concern at the failure by the Fiji Interim Government to attend the 2008 annual Pacific Islands Forum and considered this non-attendance unacceptable; and further stated that the Interim Government should have attended to account to Forum Leaders for the undertakings given at the 2007 Forum in Tonga to hold an election by March 2009, in accordance with Fiji's existing Constitution and electoral laws;
- (b) condemned the recent statements by the Fiji Interim Government that were inconsistent with the undertakings provided to Leaders at the 2007 Forum regarding the holding of elections and a return to democracy;
- (c) reaffirmed the importance of the Interim Government honouring the undertakings it made to Forum Leaders in 2007 to return Fiji to democracy by holding an election by March 2009, and to accept the outcomes of that election;
- (d) acknowledged the importance of maintaining and encouraging continued pressure from the Forum and other members of the international community to meet the March 2009 deadline;

- (e) reaffirmed the readiness of Forum members to continue to assist Fiji prepare for that election;
- (f) commended the work undertaken by the Forum-Fiji Joint Working Group up to June 2008, and urged Fiji to demonstrate its good faith in maintaining a constructive relationship with the Forum by resuming participation in the Working Group;
- (g) acknowledged that there are long-term issues that need to be addressed in Fiji, including through independent and inclusive political dialogue. In this context, Leaders recognised that a political dialogue process could assist in developing understandings among key stakeholders that would:
 - (i) create a more conducive environment for an election to be held under Fiji's existing Constitution by March 2009; and
 - (ii) address the process for ongoing dialogue that a newly elected government and key stakeholders would need to progress following an election in order to advance relevant reforms and promote national reconciliation. Accordingly Leaders expressed the Forum's support for a political dialogue process, providing it is:
 - complementary to the implementation of Fiji's commitments to the Forum on elections, and not used to delay the elections;
 - conducted as a genuine dialogue, without preconditions, threats, ultimatums or predetermined outcomes;
 - supported by all key stakeholders;
- (h) expressed the Forum's support for and willingness to assist in appropriate ways the Commonwealth-led political dialogue process, and directed the Ministerial Contact Group to monitor the progress of that dialogue and any political consensus within Fiji which might arise from it;
- (i) emphasised the importance of Fiji maintaining respect for human rights and the rule of law;
- (j) reiterated their appreciation for the solidarity with and support for the Forum's work on Fiji provided by other members of the international community;
- (k) tasked the Ministerial Contact Group with continued monitoring of the Fiji situation, including the possibility of the Group returning to Fiji, and directed it to report back to Leaders before the end of 2008 on the situation regarding election preparations, and other key issues. The Ministerial Contact Group's report should include recommendations, taking into account practice in the Commonwealth and other relevant organisations, on further measures that the Forum should take to promote compliance by the Fiji Interim Government with its 2007 Vava'u election undertakings, with a view to strengthening the Forum's efforts under the Biketawa Declaration;

- (l) agreed that following the receipt of the Ministerial Contact Group's second report, the Leaders would consider a further special meeting of Forum Leaders by the end of 2008 to consider special measures in relation to Fiji (consistent with paragraph 2(iv) of the Biketawa Declaration) and that measures to be considered included the suspension of particular governments from the Forum; and
- (m) accepted in principle the offer of Papua New Guinea to host a special meeting.

REGIONAL ASSISTANCE MISSION TO SOLOMON ISLANDS

16. Leaders noted the positive relationship that had developed between the Regional Assistance Mission to Solomon Islands (RAMSI) and the Solomon Islands Government since the 2007 Leaders' Meeting in Tonga, and welcomed the progress made to date in developing a new partnership framework between the Solomon Islands Government and RAMSI. Leaders also noted the decision by the Solomon Islands Government to approve the RAMSI Task Force Review Report; and the initiation by the Solomon Islands Government of a review of RAMSI overseen by the Foreign Relations Parliamentary Committee, which will involve extensive consultations with RAMSI participating countries. Leaders agreed to refer the proposal by Solomon Islands that Papua New Guinea become a permanent member of the Forum Ministerial Standing Committee (FMSC) to the next meeting of the FMSC.

17. Leaders welcomed and endorsed Japan's interest in cooperating with RAMSI and noted that, as agreed by the FMSC on RAMSI, the Secretary General of the Forum would consult with Forum member countries, seek clarification from the Government of Japan on its proposed form of assistance and then refer the matter back to FMSC for further deliberation.

Leaders agreed to extend PRAN, and in response the President of Nauru expressed his Government's deep appreciation for the Forum's assistance and acknowledged the special role played by the former Secretary General, Mr Greg Urwin, and the Governments of Australia and New Zealand in Nauru's efforts to recover from its economic financial crisis.

RADIOACTIVE CONTAMINANTS IN THE REPUBLIC OF THE MARSHALL ISLANDS

19. Leaders recognised the special circumstances pertaining to the continued presence of radioactive contaminants in the Republic of the Marshall Islands and reaffirmed the existence of a special responsibility by the United States of America towards the people of the Marshall Islands, who have been, and continue to be, adversely affected as a direct result of nuclear weapons tests conducted by the U.S. during its administration of the Marshall Islands under the United Nations Trusteeship mandate. Leaders reiterated their call on the U.S. to live up to its full obligations on the provision of adequate compensation and commitment to its responsibility for the safe resettlement of displaced populations, including the full and final restoration to economic productivity of all affected areas. Leaders noted that the U.S. Government has taken a position that all avenues to respond to the Changed Circumstances Petition under the original Compact as well as the amended Compact have been exhausted, and agreed to submit another letter to the U.S. Government urging the U.S. to take action in the aftermath of the Congressional hearings that established the lingering needs resulting from the U.S. Nuclear Testing Program. Leaders encouraged Forum Members to lend support to the Marshall Islands on this issue at the United Nations General Assembly, the United Nations Security Council, the Post-Forum Dialogue and other international fora.

DOHA ROUND

21. Leaders exchanged views on the importance of the WTO rules-based multilateral trading system and the need to bring the Doha Development Round negotiations to a successful conclusion as soon as possible, particularly given the economic growth and development benefits this would deliver. Leaders noted that significant progress was made at the WTO ministerial meeting in July, and regretted that it had not been possible to agree on final agricultural and non-agricultural market access modalities at that time. They agreed that it was vital that WTO members re-engage quickly to look at resolving these issues in the coming months, as well as to seek progress in other areas of the negotiations including services and rules. Leaders called for all WTO members to engage constructively and with urgency to reach an ambitious and successful conclusion to the negotiations.

Land Management and Conflict Minimisation Guiding Principles

The principles outlined below are intended to provide member countries with a framework within which to discuss country-specific matters of land reform. These principles are consistent with the principles set out in the Biketawa Declaration (Forum Leaders 2000) and the Forum Principles of Good Leadership (Forum Leaders 2003), and also build on the Forum's Potential Guidelines for Good Land Policy (FEMM 2001). They have been endorsed by the Forum Regional Security Committee (FRSC).

The guiding principles when considered together with the implementation framework that follows, will guide the identification of strategies to bring about desired reforms in customary land administration and management.

The improvement in land-based economic development whilst minimising land-related conflict, entails the following two closely intertwined dimensions:

- A. The improvement of customary land administration and land management to facilitate economic use of customary land whilst minimising local-level land-related conflict; and
- B. The improvement of land-related conflict resolution mechanisms for local-level land-related conflict and the prevention of escalation of land-related grievances into large scale conflict.

In addition there are a set of principles that are applicable to both dimensions:

- C. The role of government, information and capacity development.

A. The improvement of customary land administration and management to facilitate economic use of customary land whilst minimising local-level land-related conflict

Principle 1: Customary land policy reforms should respect and protect customary ownership and individual use rights as defined by social relations and customary laws.

Principle 2: Customary land reform efforts should be placed in the broader context of national development goals, recognising that there can be no security without equitable development and that optimal economic development cannot be realised without an enabling social and political environment that also promotes democratic and peaceful existence.

Principle 3: Customary land reform efforts should be based on the recognition that Pacific societies are in a state of flux, with changing needs, values and aspirations of people as a result of modernisation, global integration and imperatives of the cash economy.

Principle 4: Active participation of customary landowners and other stakeholders in customary land management efforts is essential if nation-wide ownership of the process and outcomes is to be secured.

A nation-wide or incremental approach to customary land reforms should be guided by a stakeholder-based national land policy that articulates a clear national vision about the balance between customary laws and the formal systems of customary land administration and land management.

Consultation and active participation by all stakeholders in the negotiation of leases is crucial to ensure their acceptability and to minimise the opportunity for future disputes.

Consensus-based solutions should include the strengthening of customary and formal institutions and decision-making processes that suit local social, cultural (customary) and political characteristics, and reflect principles articulated in the Biketawa Declaration, principles of good leadership and gender equity.

Principle 5: Customary land tenure can be strengthened by the clarification of its core elements.

The clarification of customary land tenure requires the recording of landowning groups and their membership, claimed land area, the rights of members residing on customary land, the rights of absentee members, representational and distributional authority, and the customary laws that are used to determine such rights and roles. These processes would be consistent with national commitments on equity, including gender equity where the country is a signatory to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW).

Formal registration of landowning groups may be attempted as a second step but only in high demand areas where the need for more formalised land registration is essential.

Customary land reform processes adopted in a country should allow for diversity in customary laws found across landowner groups, and the recognition that communities differ in the strength of their traditional lifestyle and degree of individualism found in the group.

Principle 6: Dealings in land should be fair and reflect equitable returns to customary landowners, investors and lessees, based on the economic value of their inputs and market principles.

Leases should be secure and lease conditions should be clear about key factors including exclusivity, duration, renewal on expiry, compensation for any improvements at the time of expiry, amount of premium and annual rent, and conditions regarding sub-leasing or trading of leases.

Returns to landowners, in the form of land rent plus premium, and lessees must be based on market principles and be fair to the lessees' investment and land owners' superior interests.

Governments must follow due process of acquisition for public purposes and provide landowners a fair market based compensation for land acquired. Alternatively, governments may consider negotiating a long term leasing arrangement under 'fair' market rental conditions instead of outright acquisition.

Distribution of returns to land amongst current and future generations of members of land owning groups should be based on core principles of equity, taking into account agreed local customs. This distribution can be facilitated using landowning units (LOUs)/ village-level trusts or similar arrangements, combining elements of traditional systems and company structures and processes, and guided by good governance principles.

B. The improvement of land-related conflict resolution mechanisms for local-level land-related conflict and prevention of escalation of land-related grievances into large scale conflict.

Principle 7: Customary and formal resolution mechanisms should be treated as part of a continuum of the resolution of local-level land-related conflicts.

The improvement of land-related conflict resolution mechanisms should consider the balance between the need for impartiality and contextual knowledge pertaining to land, and the balance between the need for win-win and win-lose solutions. These questions, in turn, need to be balanced with considerations of cost and accessibility.

The improvement of land-related conflict resolution mechanisms should be based on the recognition that Pacific societies are in a state of flux, resulting in changes in customary authority and decision-making processes. This implies that land-related conflict resolution mechanisms may need to be revised at various points in time.

Principle 8: The prevention of large-scale land-related conflicts and crises requires the prevention of the mobilisation of land-related grievances and misperceptions.

For the prevention of the mobilisation of often long-standing grievances into large-scale conflicts, easily accessible, accurate and comprehensive information on different aspects of land use is essential, including information about leasehold conditions and distribution of returns to customary landowners.

For the prevention of the escalation of conflict, a whole of country approach is important to ensure equitable economic development, mutual respect regardless of differences, and the rule of, and respect for, law.

C. The role of government, information and capacity development

Principle 9: Governments should play a supporting role in customary land dealings by creating an enabling environment for recognising, protecting and enforcing customary land tenure, encouraging and enforcing fair dealings in the fair use of land, as well as resolving conflicts over land.

A clear legislative framework should provide for integrated customary institutions and formal land administration systems, removing overlap and increasing clarity and coordination of formalised land administration.

A clear legislative framework for dispute resolution should provide for the appropriate mix of customary conflict resolution mechanisms and introduced conflict resolution processes and mechanisms to suit local situations.

Principle 10: Governments should provide for a central geo-referenced information system of landowning groups, their claims, customs and customary laws, and a registry of land dealings and other selected land use and management related information.

Governments must adopt a national framework to support landowners documenting and recording, and registering where relevant, their landowners' groups, membership rules, customs and customary laws about land, consistent with the national land information framework.

Customary land information should be made available to end users, the landowners and other stakeholders in an appropriate form to support them in land dealing negotiations, land use and management decisions, and conflict resolution

Land use planning and zoning of customary land should be adopted in areas of high demand to systematically guide development.

Principle 11: Customary landowners and outside investors should have appropriate understanding about customary land tenure and introduced land leasing requirements to negotiate fair and equitable land leases and benefit sharing arrangements, minimising the scope for local-level conflict.

Potential investors should have a good understanding of customary tenure systems, including customary laws and decision-making processes, in addition to formal land leasing processes.

Customary landowners should have sufficient understanding regarding customary land tenure and its relation to commercial use, land lease arrangements and financial management to ensure land lease conditions provide fair and equitable returns to the landowners and equitable distribution within landowning groups.

Principle 12: Public land management institutions should be well resourced, competent and responsible.

Public land management institutions should have the necessary knowledge, skills and tools to implement customary land administration and management in a transparent and cost effective manner. Included in this set of knowledge, skills and tools are those related to social aspects of customary land tenure and mediation, in order to support customary land dealings and minimise the scope for conflict.

Implementation Framework

Experience in customary land reform efforts in the region over the last two to three decades suggests that for the implementation of the guiding principles, political commitment and a nationally-owned land reform process are critical. Further, given the sensitivities associated with customary land, systematic and measured reform processes supported by robust information would help overcome misplaced perceptions and fears.

Member countries may take the following key steps to implement the LMCM Guiding Principles for improving access to their customary land and maintaining social harmony. These steps are based on the national sustainable development strategy processes that emphasise stakeholder-based national development planning, implementation and budgetary allocation (Dalal-Clayton and Bass 2002), as agreed to by member countries under the Pacific Plan Initiative 5.1. These steps can help countries to be in the driver's seat of their own land reform process and better coordinate national efforts and resources with resources of development partners to address their high priority initiatives, consistent with the Pacific Principles of Aid Effectiveness.

Step 1: Obtain political commitment for a customary land reform process.

Step 2: Adopt a stakeholder-based approach and hold nation-wide discussions on land-related matters, to define the land reform agenda. This could be facilitated by a nationally respected champion (s), who could be politicians, community leaders or public officials.

Step 3: Once a common understanding has been achieved, stakeholders together identify a national vision and national land policy framework for customary land reforms, which articulates expected outcomes and key guiding principles to underpin land reforms.

Step 4: Obtain government endorsement of the national land policy framework with clear land reform outcomes linked into national development goals.

Step 5: Government and key stakeholders decide on strategies to address the national land reform agenda focussing on the key outcomes desired, reflecting national land policy goals.

Step 6: Obtain development partner support for priority outcomes-focused programmes of initiatives

THE NIUE DECLARATION ON CLIMATE CHANGE

We, the Leaders of the Pacific Islands Forum, meeting in Niue:

DEEPLY CONCERNED by the serious current impacts of and growing threat posed by climate change to the economic, social, cultural and environmental well-being and security of Pacific Island countries; and that current and anticipated changes in the Pacific climate, coupled with the region's vulnerability, are expected to exacerbate existing challenges and lead to significant impacts on Pacific countries' environments, their sustainable development and future survival;

RECALLING that despite being amongst the lowest contributors to factors causing climate change, the Pacific Islands region is one of the most vulnerable to the impacts of climate change including its exacerbation of climate variability, sea level rise and extreme weather events;

RECOGNISING that societies pursuing a path of sustainable development are likely to be more resilient to the impacts of climate change through enhanced adaptive capacity;

NOTING that despite Pacific Island countries' low greenhouse gas emissions, they are taking significant steps towards reducing their reliance on fossil fuel, with its detrimental economic and environmental consequences;

RECOGNISING the importance of retaining the Pacific's social and cultural identity, and the desire of Pacific peoples to continue to live in their own countries, where possible;

RECALLING Forum Leaders' recognition that climate change is a long-term international challenge requiring a resolute and concerted international effort, and stressing the need for urgent action by the world's major greenhouse gas emitting countries to set targets and make commitments to significantly reduce their emissions, and to support the most vulnerable countries to adapt to and address the impacts of climate change;

WELCOMING in this context the progress made by the international community in the "Bali Road Map" towards a comprehensive global climate change agreement under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change and its Kyoto Protocol, along with the accompanying Bali Action Plan covering mitigation, adaptation, financing and technology, and a dramatic enhancement of effort under the Kyoto Protocol;

RECALLING the Mauritius Strategy for the Further Implementation of the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States, which calls for Small Island Developing States (SIDS), with the necessary support of the international community, to establish or strengthen and facilitate regional climate change coordination mechanisms, and calls on the international community to facilitate and promote the development, transfer and dissemination to SIDS of appropriate technologies and practices to address climate change;

RECALLING ALSO the Pacific Islands Framework for Action on Climate Change (2006-2015), adopted by Forum Leaders in 2005, which establishes an integrated, programmatic approach to addressing the interlinked causes and effects of climate change-related impacts in the region;

STRESSING the importance of cooperating towards the establishment of an effective post-2012 framework in which all major economies will participate in a responsible manner, underlining the need to achieve both emissions reductions and economic growth in working toward climate stability;

WELCOMING the resources and technical assistance from PFD Partners including new initiatives such as the Japanese Cool Earth Promotion Programme and the European Union's Global Climate Change Alliance (GCCA) that support practical measures to address the impacts of climate change in Pacific Island Countries, while noting that the priority of Pacific SIDS is securing sustainable financing for immediate and effective implementation of concrete adaptation programmes on the ground;

HEREBY:

- COMMIT Forum members to continue to develop Pacific-tailored approaches to combating climate change, consistent with their ability to actively defend and protect their own regional environment, with the appropriate support of the international community;
- FURTHER COMMIT the members of the Pacific Islands Forum to continue to advocate and support the recognition, in all international fora, of the urgent social, economic and security threats caused by the adverse impacts of climate change and sea level rise to our territorial integrity and continued existence as viable dynamic communities, and of the potential for climate change to impact on intranational and international security;
- REQUEST the Secretariat of the Pacific Regional Environment Programme (SPREP) – working in cooperation with other regional and international agencies and bilateral climate change programmes – to continue to meet the individual needs of its member countries through its mandated role of:
 - (a) strengthening meteorological services,
 - (b) consolidating and distributing information on climate change,
 - (c) strengthening adaptation and mitigation measures, and
 - (d) increasing Pacific Island countries' capacity to manage their engagement in the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change;and to secure new and additional financial and technical resources to do this work;
- ENCOURAGE the Pacific's Development Partners to increase their technical and financial support for climate change action on adaptation, mitigation and, if necessary, relocation, while welcoming the pledged increases in resources to address the climate change challenge; and to ensure their assistance aligns with regional and national priorities and supports existing regional and national delivery mechanisms (in accordance with the Pacific Aid Effectiveness Principles 2007, and the Paris Declaration on Aid Effectiveness 2005);

- FURTHER ENCOURAGE development partners to increase investment in and support for Pacific Island Countries' efforts to move towards alternative and renewable energy sources, which reduce the emissions of our region and improve energy efficiency, as well as help to address the growing unaffordability of fuel;
- CALL ON international partners to assist our development by undertaking immediate and effective measures to reduce emissions, use cleaner fuels, and increase use of renewable energy sources;
- AGREE that the high sensitivity and vulnerability of Pacific Island Countries to climate change, including its exacerbation of climate variability, sea level rise and extreme weather events, means that adaptation is a critical response for Pacific governments, and requires urgent support from regional agencies and development partners alike;
- ENCOURAGE all Pacific Island countries to act on the ability and information they have now, with the assistance of development partners, to continue to address the impacts of climate change through 'no regrets' or 'low regrets' actions in affected sectors that are already facing development challenges, including food and water security, health, and the capacity to deal with extreme events such as tropical cyclones, flooding and droughts, thereby simultaneously delivering on sustainable development aims;
- AGREE that the exacerbating effects of climate change in the region will require Pacific Island Countries to incorporate adaptive strategies into their national sectoral planning, and that this integration will require a high degree of whole-of-government coordination and leadership; and
- DIRECT the Forum Secretariat to work with relevant CROP agencies and Forum members to support the implementation of the commitments made in this Declaration, consistent with the Pacific Plan, the Pacific Islands Framework for Action on Climate Change, and other existing regional and international initiatives, including examining the potential for regional climate change insurance arrangements, and building regional expertise in the development and deployment of adaptation technologies; and to report on progress to the 2009 Forum Leaders' meeting.
